WHITEY' DOERING, MAIL ROBBER, DIES OF PISTOL WOUND

St. Louis Gangster Was shot
In An Affray at Roadhouse at Halfway, Ill., Yesterday.

KEEPER OF RESORT ALSO IS WOUNDED

Says Doering Shot Him in Attempted Holdup; Officers Consider Theories of Bootleg Fight and Grudge.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MARION, Ill., Nov. 19.—Death
this afternoon ended the appeal of William F. (Whitey) Doering, member of the notorious Egan gang of gunmen of St. Louis, who was sentenced recently to 30 years' imprisonment for participation in the darling downtown holdup of an armored mail truck at St. Louis, April 2. He had been at liberty on a $90,000 appeal bond.

Last night he was shot in the abdomen in an affray at a roadhouse at Halfway, halfway between here and Johnson City. Before his death
he refused to make any statement.
He was identified by Sheriff Galligan of Williamson County. He was entered on the hospital records as W.
F. Doering.

Roadhouse Man Wounded.

Charles Birger, proprietor of the roadhouse at Halfway, who was seriously wounded by a bullet that entered his left side, under the heart, and passed out under his right armpit, and who declared that Doering shot him in an attempted "holdup," is in the hospital. Birger, too, identified Doering as the St. Louis Egan gangster. He asserted that Doering shot three companions of Doering shot him in trying to shoot him. Birger said. It is likely Birger will recover.

The authorities consider three possible theories of the attack on Birger
—robbery, as Birger says; revenge, possibly in connection with the recent killing of Birger's bartender, Cecil Knighton, by Birger, and a gang quarrel in connection with bootlegging. They also suggest that the shooting of Doering might have been intentional, the supposition being that one of his companions might have seized the opportunity to settle a score.

At the hospital Birger declared that Doering and his companions came to the roadhouse in an automobile about 9:30 o'clock last night and called him outside, then shot him. That is the best description that has been obtained here of what happened at Halfway.

Birger shot and killed his bartender, Knighton, in the roadhouse
last Wednesday, after an argument.
A coroner's jury exonerated Birger
with a verdict of self-defense.

State's Attorney Duty at noon today said he had received only current information of the affray, but would investigate.

It is understood here that two men were arrested at Herrin on suspicion after the shooting, and are being held there, but have refused to talk. One of these men is under $2000 bonds on a charge of highway robbery.

Associate in Penitentiary.
David Weisman, an associate of Doering and former St. Louisian, who later was a shoe dealer at Johnson City, was convicted with Doering of participation in the St. Louis mail robbery and has been sent to the Atlanta (Ga.) Federal penitentiary under a 25-year sentence. Postoffice authorities discovered in their investigation of the robbery that some of the stolen securities were brought in this vicinity of Southern Illinois.

The loss in the St. Louis robbery was $147,174 in cash and negotiable industrial bonds, and $2,129.85 in unissued Federal Land Bank bonds which could have been made negotiable only by forgery of signatures.
The robbery occurred at Fourth and Locust streets. The Federal Land Bank bonds and part of the cash and industrial bonds were recovered in a raid on Doering's home in Richmond Heights, St. Louis County, April 19.
The remainder, $131,856 in cash and industrial bonds, has not been recovered.

Johnson City is about 10 miles north of Marion, with Halfway on the route, and Herrin is about eight miles west of Johnson City.

Work at Tutankhamen's Tomb Restarted.

LUXOR, Egypt, Nov. 19.—Work on the tomb of Tutankhamen was resumed today. The final preparations having been completed. Howard Carter, head of the expedition since the death of the Earl of Carnarvon, removed the outer woodwork and opened the iron gate permitting entry into the passage leading to the antechamber, which last season was cleared of its royal treasures.

FAKE FINE PAID TO BE CHARGED ON STATE EXPENSE ACCOUNT

Brockman Assured by Highway
Worker Relief Will Be Found
From Alleged $14.65 Payment to Policeman.

Protests of an employee of the State Highway Department that he had been arrested wrongfully on a charge of violating automobile parking regulations and had paid $14.65 to a policeman for his fine, went for-naught when the complainant was unable Saturday night to identify the police station to which he was taken,
or point out the arresting officer.

"Some recourse appeared available,
however. Philip Brockman, President of the Board of Police Commissioners, who made an investigation,
today said the State employee assured him the amount would be charged in apparently to the status of the soldier in a court at Herrin, Pa.

A protest was made by Johnson against testimony given before the committee on Nov. 5 by Dr. D. O.
Smith, one of the investigators for the committee, and also against the manufacturing of testimony
apparently to be used later in the case affecting the status of the soldier in
a court at Herrin, Pa.

Representative Johnson said officials of the bureau acted in violation of a restraining order issued by the State courts and that he had been asked by Director Frank T. Hines of the bureau to present the facts
so that it was wrong done in this case can be righted.

The clergyman is foreman of a jury now hearing testimony in Willett's suit against the bureau for $15,000,000 damages. Complicated preliminaries have been fought out in the last week with the state and various Whipple opponents by a battalion of distinguished corporation lawyers, laying the foundation work for his case. He is now ready to start on the first floor of that structure.
The finished creation will either tumble from the shots of opposing counsel or tell an amazing story of financial piracy.

Central Figure in Case.

The central figure in the case is Willett, who, as a lad fresh from the country, started his business career in the offices of a Boston leather concern. At the crest of that career he had built up two sturdy plants manufacturing felt and felt slippers,

and dozen subsidiary corporations,
and became a millionaire shipbuilder and director of the Merchants' National Bank in Boston, and had had his executive ability recognized in a call by Gen. Gethers to Government work in Washington.

The defendants include F. S. Mose-ley & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co.; Robert F. Herrick, counsel for the First National Bank of Boston; Daniel G. Wing, president of the First National Bank of New York. The Chase
National, being out of the jurisdiction

mitted to present later a memo-

witnesses that he could not do so.

Before the committee began its inquiry into the operations of the several divisions of the bureau it had tried to bring Forbes' name out of the picture, referring to charges against former Director Charles R.
Forbes. His counsel, James E. East-

committee had so limited his time that it was impossible for him "to present a full and adequate defense of Forbes" and requested that he be per-

FRENCH FOREIGN OFFICE INTERPRETS POINCARÉ'S SPEECH

Threat to Continue Occupation Until Treaty Is Fulfilled Said to Apply to Rhineland.

MUST CONSULT BELGIUM ON RUHR

French Premier Says Permission to Former Prince to Return to Germany Is "Insolent Outrage to Peace."

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 19.—France's determination to continue "the occupation" until the treaty of Versailles has been executed and protection assured, as expressed by Premier Poincaré in his speech at Neuilly yesterday, applies only to the Rhineland and the bridgeheads, according to an official Foreign Office statement issued through the Havas Agency today.

The statement adds that decision concerning the Rhineland would be dependent upon agreement with Belgium. The statement read:

"Certain newspapers seem not to have understood the exact sense of the words the Premier announced yesterday in an address at Neuilly when he declared:

"France is also determined not to evacuate the territories occupied by virtue of the treaty until all clauses signed at Versailles have been completely executed."

"France also is determined not to evacuate the territories occupied by virtue of the treaty until all clauses signed at Versailles have been completely executed."

"These words concerned the occupied territories on the left bank of the Rhine and the bridgeheads. It goes without saying they could not apply to the Ruhr, concerning which no decision can be reached without previous accord between France and Belgium."

Most of the Paris newspapers merely emphasized the Premier's enlarged policy by printing his remarks on this subject in italics or black-face type. The Matin, however, particularly mentioned the Ruhr in explaining the significance of the French determination to use the occupation as a guarantee for protection as well as payment.

France Determined on Execution of All Clauses of Treaty.

By the Associated Press.
NEUILLY, France, Nov. 19.—Premier Poincaré, in a speech on the world that France is determined to remain in the occupied territory "until all clauses of the Versailles treaty are completely executed and the security of France is guaranteed."

The Premier who apparently was in a combative mood added that new penalties against Germany would be imposed unless full satisfaction from Germany were obtained.

The Premier expressed no disappointment over the failure in the negotiations for the creation of a commission of experts to determine Germany's capacity to pay. He said yesterday he firmly believed that she was quite capable of bringing Germany to terms.

"France is determined," said Poincaré, "not to evacuate the occupied territories until all the clauses of the treaty signed at Versailles have been completely executed and are firmly protected against fresh policies of aggression."

French demands of the treaty as regards military control and the return to Germany of the former Crown Prince called for penalties, the Premier declared "and we shall take them unless we obtain satisfaction."

The occasion of the Premier's speech was the unveiling yesterday of a monument to the war dead of Neuilly. Great interest had been attached to the speech, because it was the first delivered by Poincaré in the metropolitan district since he began his Sunday oratorical campaign. The Premier stated France's case more bluntly and went farther in the way of France's demands upon Germany than he had done in the provinces.

Determined on Security.

"As much as we insist upon receiving reparations," declared Poincaré, "we are no less determined to sustain our security. Germany for a long time had played a bad hand with the treaty's stipulations destined to guarantee it. She has paralyzed the action of the Interalied Control Commission. She has been endeavoring to rebuild in secret her war weapons and to reorganize her military formations forbidden by the treaty."

Meanwhile she authorized the heir to the imperial throne to return to the country. She is welcoming the man who is inscribed at the top of the list of those guilty of responsibility for the war, from the exploits of whom my constituents of the Meuse department suffered during the first year of the war.

The acts on the part of the German Government are impudent challenges to the allies—brutal violations of the treaty. Insolent outrages to peace.

"They call for sanctions. We will take them unless we obtain satisfaction."

Putting Up His Dukes for the Camera

HIRAM WARREN JOHNSON.

"BETTER TO SUFFER NEW PENALTIES THAN EXILE CROWN PRINCE"

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—CHANCELLOR STRESEMANN, in the course of a lengthy defense of his policy to his party executive last evening, said with reference to the former Crown Prince's return:

"We are threatened with further penalties on account of the return of the Crown Prince. I hold it, however, better to suffer new French brutalities than to bear the reproach that the last German who fought in the great war should remain exiled abroad, far from his family."

These words concerned the occupied territories on the left bank of the Rhine and the bridgeheads. It goes without saying they could not apply to the Ruhr, concerning which no decision can be reached without previous accord between France and Belgium."

4 ALLIED OFFICERS TWICE ARRESTED BY TROOPS IN SAXONY

Reported to Have Been Handled in Shameful Manner—Gen. Nollet Goes to Report on Incident.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Nov. 19.—An incident which is likely to entail grave consequences is reported from French sources at Leipzig. The Reichswehr arrested two French and Belgian officers of the Interalied Control Commission, who were motoring from Dresden to Leipzig, and held them for several hours until orders had been received from their superior officers to release them.

The liberated officers then went to a hotel in Leipzig, where at 2 o'clock yesterday, four members of the Reichswehr invaded their bedrooms and declared they again were under arrest. The Reichswehr took the officers to the guard room, where they were detained until 9 a.m. It is asserted that the officers were molested and insulted in a shameful manner before orders were received from Dresden that they be freed.

Gen. Nollet, head of the French Military Mission, has left Berlin for Paris to bring the matter to the attention of his Government.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Nov. 19.—The British members of the Interalied Military Control Commission have heard unofficially that they are to be withdrawn. Formal orders to that effect are expected to arrive here at once.

Senator Expected to Appeal to Middle Grounders in Race for Presidency.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Senator Hiram Johnson came to town yesterday from the announcement of his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, but added nothing to his Chicago declaration. Perhaps nothing is so significant of the break between him and the Progressive who was strongest for him in 1920, as the fact he called on neither Senator Borah nor ex-Senator, now Judge, Kenyon, though both are in Washington. Senator Norris is another who has quit Johnson.

There is an impression that the California Senator will try to develop strength among the group midway between the La Follette wing and the standpatters to make up for the defections in his progressive support and actually endeavor to that effect as far as possible.

to protect the secrecy of the meeting and the foreign press representatives, who are usually allowed to enter with the French newspapermen the lobby leading to the conference part of the foreign ministry.

The foreign journalists, however, were the only ones to learn that it had been arranged for the Ambassadors to enter by the side door so as to avoid the photographers and reporters at the main entrance. The foreign correspondents were the only ones, therefore, to be at the side door when the Ambassadors began to arrive.

It will be remembered that previous to President Coolidge's advent at the White House Senator Moses of New Hampshire was for him in preference to President Harding, and others of his approximate complexion were credited with thinking the same thought. It is believed Johnson has annexed Senator McCormick of Illinois, but the possible Ladd-Worden candidature makes such a hypothesis uncertain.

Others on Middle Grounds.

If the Californian is figuring on appealing to the by no means small farmer group that inclines as little to the La Follette radicalism as to the Coolidge conservatism, he will find the field is becoming increasingly narrow.

Baron Borah and Gov. Pinchot all have boosters in the Middle West. Pinchot is going to Omaha shortly to address some farm organizations and this is to be the launching of his boom in that section. He will figure in the primaries of all the near radical states and make Johnson's campaign more difficult.

Johnson, on the politicians say, must bid good-bye to the Michigan delegation, which has been led by Borah for him that time, and he did it by storming through the State House and the German press.

100 MARKET BEING GLUTTED

Warning to Shippers Against Danger of Depression.
By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—A warning to shippers that flooding the hog market is causing a depression and serious loss to hog producers in Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska and Indiana was issued yesterday by John G. Brown, president of the American Live Stock Producers' Association.

The present glutting of the hog market, according to a recent bulletin of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is caused by the present high price of corn which farmers are selling instead of feeding it. Not only is the market unfavorable, but the hog supply of next year is seriously menaced. Brown said.

PSYCHO-GRAPHOLOGIST FAILS TO THROW LIGHT ON ELWELL CASE

Rafael Schermann, Tells Police Woman They Have Sought Was Man, Masquerading.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The longer he meditated the worse he gets." Acting Deputy Inspector Thomas M. Fay declared after Rafael Schermann, Viennese psychographologist, failed to throw any convincing light on the murder of Joseph B. Elwell, turfman and card expert, in June, 1920, by examining handwriting of the slain man and five witnesses who testified in the District Attorney's investigation.

Schermann had demonstrated his methods yesterday for the second time before the police in his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria and his only positive assertion of any importance concerning the crime was that Elwell was unconscious when shot.

Nevertheless, he found evidences of the presence of a new character in the case, a "man-woman" whom the police know only as "Marjorie," and that they admit they have sought without success. The police have always sought "Marjorie" as a woman, but the strait-laced Viennese declared positively it was a man, masquerading as a woman.

Prof. Schermann was unable to say, however, whether the murder had been done by a man or a woman. He said it had come after a drinking bout in which Elwell had become unconscious from drink and had then been murdered. Schermann's description of Elwell and of his habits of life was quite accurate.

80-Year-Old Woman Heroine in Fire.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—An 80-year-old woman patient at the Illinois Masonic Hospital is a heroine in the eyes of patients and nurses here today. The woman, Mrs. Laura Squires, detected smoke emanating from the nurses' home next door to the hospital. She awakened the fire department and awakened all sleepers. The loss was small.

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—headache and feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for salolene—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

The tablets are clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like salolene—but have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two tablets and the passing results! Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15¢ and 30¢.

Notes Signed With Initials
"K. K. K." Found After His Disappearance

By the Associated Press.
CAMDEN, Tenn., Nov. 19.—J. H. Olive, 36, general manager of a branch of the Standard Oil Co., is missing. Authorities believe they are confronted by a murder mystery.

Olive went to the oil company plant Saturday night. When he failed to return home his wife started an investigation. Early yesterday when the searchers entered the oil company offices, they discovered bloodstains upon the floor, overturned chairs and oil cans and evidences of a struggle. On an office table was a pocketbook belonging to Olive with $100 in checks, but no cash, and three notes. The notes were signed with the initials "K. K. K." and both warned Olive to leave Camden, setting the date of Oct. 19 for his departure. The third note was from Olive to his wife. It told her that he feared he was going to be killed.

Outside the office tracks of an automobile were found. These led to a highway about 50 yards away. Police believe that Olive was murdered and the body thrown in the Tennessee River.

Coughing only aggravates a cough

Control coughing—the first step in curing a cough.

COUGHS are frequently due merely to irritation caused by a cold, a condition of throat and lung tissues. Persistent hacking will then only increase the condition and continue the cough indefinitely. Such coughs can and should be stopped at once because they are a futile waste of strength.

Dr. King's New Discovery checks coughing quickly and without any after-effects. It quenches the throat and lung tissues and gives the complexion a chance to clear away. It has an agreeable taste. All druggists.

Post-Dispatch Bureau
20-23 Wyatt Building
WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—President Coolidge's approval of a heavy outlay of money for checking in smuggling has recalled predictions of legislators when the Volstead was being debated that it would cost $200,000,000 to enforce prohibition. Prohibition costs now are beginning to skyrocket.

The list of past appropriations compiled by the prohibition commission tells the story of the mounting outlay when compared with the sum set aside for next year after the nationwide agitation for either enforcing or repealing the statute:

1920, $250,000.
1921, $4,500,000.
1922, $7,250,000.
1923, $9,250,000.
1924, $9,000,000.

1925 (requested), $33,500,000.

The expenditure for enforcement in 1928 was small because the law did not become effective until late in the fiscal year and was administered by internal revenue bureau, which Congress later made up by additional appropriations.

What Money Is Desired For.

The $38,500,000 desired for next fiscal year is divided as follows: Prohibition Unit, $10,000,000; coast guard for new cutters and stations, $20,000,000; coast guard additional personnel, $3,500,000.

Though a last-minute attempt made by the budget bureau to increase the appropriation was unsuccessful, according to prohibition officials, the prohibitory bureau will get every cent it asks for.

The enforcement appropriation does not include money spent by other departments for the same purpose, such as expenditure of the Department of Justice for its increased court work in prosecuting prohibition.

An examination of record of liquor prescriptions for last year was given out yesterday by the prohibition unit. New York outdistanced all rivals in the number of ailments and colds cured by alcohol, whisky, gin and wine, other states was even a close rival; these particular kinds of treatment though Massachusetts found rum was a good medicine and stood far ahead of the Empire State. Medicinal rum consumption and use was used considerably more than did New York.

New York Leads in Prescriptions. The report showed 2,828,751 prescriptions were issued by 2,828,751 druggists and filled by retail druggists in New York. The next greatest demand was in Illinois, where the prescriptions numbered 2,163,785.

The report shows 707,863 prescriptions for Missouri. The amount of liquor sold on these prescriptions was as follows: Whisky, 87,512 gallons; alcohol, 22; brandy, 29; rum, 3; rum, 3, and wine, 38.

To the total number of such prescriptions for the whole country, 11,268,469, on which 1,400,615 gallons of liquor were purchased.

In Pennsylvania, where Gov. Packer signed dry law, violators went without Federal curb, there was no much sickness. Although Pennsylvania has the second largest population among the states, the druggists filled only 492,671 prescriptions. New York consumed 498,24 gallons of medicinal while Illinois 269,670.29 and Pennsylvania 52,447 gallons.

The variety of sickness apparently did not yield to treatment, as only 23,43 gallons were obtained.

Though this last-minute attempt was made by the budget bureau to trim the request of Commissioner Hayes for an increased appropriation, it was unsuccessful, according to prohibition officials. The prohibition bureau will get every cent it asks for.

An examination of record of physicians' liquor prescriptions for the last year was given yesterday by the prohibition unit. New York far outdistanced all rivals in the number of ailments and colds cured by alcohol, whisky, gin and wine. No other state was even a close rival for these particular kinds of treatment, though Massachusetts found that rum was a good medicine and stood far ahead of the Empire State in medicinal rum consumption and likewise used considerably more brandy than did New York.

The report shows 707,863 prescriptions for Missouri. The amount of liquor sold on these prescriptions was as follows: Whisky, 87,553 gallons; alcohol, 23; brandy, 29; gin, 181; rum, 3; wine, 89.

In Pennsylvania, where Gov. Pinchot says dry law violators operate without Federal curb, there was not so much sickness. Although Pennsylvania has the second largest population among the states, the drugstores filled only 492,671 prescriptions. New York consumed 442,914 gallons of medicinal whisky, rum, gin, 367,070 and Pennsylvania 13,161,47 gallons.

Figures on "Wine Treatment." New York liked the wine treatment best. Massachusetts and California stood far ahead of all the remaining states in medicinal wine consumption, but the two of them did not equal the Empire State's consumption. New York took 10,277,64 gallons. Massachusetts 4,922 gallons and California 4,704,02 gallons.

Potatoes showed a decrease of 15 per cent and cabbage 9 per cent. Other food articles decreasing in cost, were: Pork chops, sirloin and round steak, rib roast, ham, navy beans, prunes, rib roast, raisins, chuck roast, ham and beans.

Bread was among the foods listed, as showing no change, along with evaporated milk, wheat cereals, macaroni and various canned foods.

The report finds that five essential elements to successful barge operations on the upper Mississippi River are lacking at present and that re-establishment of waterborne commerce on the upper Mississippi offers fair opportunities for demonstration that it, as well as the Mississippi, can be made self-supporting.

Professors With Third-Rate Minds. By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Ninety-five per cent of college professors have "third-rate minds—they have their day in the class room and that ends them," Dr. Alexander Melikoff, former president of Amherst College, said in an address before the new school for social research.

Political Gossip of Washington

Plan for Reorganization of Government Departments Would Shift Coast Guard Service, With Watch for Rum-Runners, to the Navy.

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—HEN the politician moaned that "things are seldom what they seem," he meant that the situation in that greatest of games of chance there is no real deal without a joker. Even the scheme for the reorganization of the departments of the Government under which the army and navy were to be under a single head and national uplift was to be accomplished by a department of public welfare has its artful little gold brick wrapped in a plausibility and hidden in complete obscurity.

When Attorney General Daugherty gave an opinion that the President had no authority to employ the navy to break up the rum fleet, and President Coolidge announced he would not ask Congress for the lacking power, there was some wonderment at the meekness and philosophy with which the Anti-Saloon League endured the disappointment.

They had clamored for this, and their habit has been to raise the political roof when any decision went against them, but they took this one with dignity and patience.

The navy have been in the Bureau reorganization plan. Buried down among the branches to be transferred is the coast guard service, formerly known as the revenue cutter service, which according to the program, is to be "shifted from the Treasury Department to the navy." Revenue cutters are ships; the navy has ships and maritime matters generally; obviously they belong together.

The navy has just waked to the circumstance that if the revenue service becomes part of it, its responsibility for the efficiency of the agency will be shifted to the navy.

If the plan had gone through as it was blocked out, the army and navy would be under the same head, with the interesting possibilities of bootlegger campaigns on land.

Wherever the prohibition enforcement bureau finally lands, the demand is to be made that the head of the department that gets it shall be a white ribboner, under the Anti-Saloon League slogan, "Put none but Americans on guard." The dry assault on Secretary Mellon is not unenlightened in this regard. It must not be forgotten that Mellon is behind in the plot to make Gov. Pinchot's fishing for Pennsylvania delegates to the Republican national convention as near a waterfall as possible.

McCormick is not sure enough of renomination and election to decline to go to the White House.

The plan recommended, Ashburn said, could be put into effect without annual congressional appropriations, would relieve the War Secretary of handicaps of governmental operation, and allow the affairs of the corporation to be conducted on a business basis. The system would be financed by common stock issued by the corporation and by a bond issue of $10,000,000 by the United States treasury.

Government Control of Stock.

The War Secretary, as ex-officio president of the corporation, would be authorized to purchase for the United States $1,500,000 worth of the bonds and to hold not less than 51 per cent of the common stock for the Government.

It is realized fully that generally increasing standards of living for the masses of our people require an ever-increasing productivity on the part of industry. Of course, we also realize that much improvement can be had by the elimination of such abuses as profiteering, wasteful methods of manufacture and transportation, inefficient management and financial manipulations.

The American trade union movement is more than any other labor movement in the world, places itself in accord with the trend of industry, helps to foster its development and helps to increase its efficiency. Like most other labor movements in the world, it is not in any sense antagonistic to the natural, rational and evolutionary development of modern industry.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATE.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Sunday's Death Toll.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PEOPLE are being murdered in the streets of our city every day. The automobile exacts a terrible toll, yet scant heed is paid to the peril. Perhaps, because the toll of death is taken over a large area. If the deaths that usually occur on Sunday of each week throughout the nation could be centrally grouped we would gasp with horror. The lesson would be driven home to us with telling force.

A careless hand at the wheel and the inevitable happens. The couple are pulled from under the wreckage and the ambulance makes a fruitless run to the hospital. The ghastly freight, once human and full of heart, throbs and diverts the onlookers. Satin-lined boxes who are friends in the little while the whale is garnished with expensive flowers, the Coroner checks up the one word "unavoidable," and the people go back to the former rut because citizens will not take heed in time.

Mistaken folly! We hear people say: "Sunday boosts business for the undertaker!" Not so! We all must die some day, the undertaker will eventually get us all, but some of us should be allowed to live to enjoy the flowers on Monday.

The man who races a car at high speed through the city streets gambles with the future of his wife and children, and the wife and children of other men!

Four grim and foreboding walls with strongly entrenched bars, built by stern Judges, quickened public sentiment, will permit of even Tiny Tim crossing the streets in safety to purchase a lollipop with which to tease his palate.

Meaning.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A public meeting of the Democratic State Committee recently which was to spread unity in the party, that did not mean unity for the man who had torn and lacerated the feelings of the party throughout the State and nation and had materially aided the Republican party to elect its last President; he has violated every tenet of the party since its inception in 1832. He is totally unfit to represent the loyal Democracy of Missouri in the next Democratic national convention and just as well be it now understood that he cannot be a delegate to the next national convention from Missouri to nominate a candidate.

I call the loyal Democracy to stand up and be counted and damned be he who hides his face. His election would be an indorsement of the 50,000 Republican traitors who voted for him in the last election.

The day for wild cat leaders is past.

Poor Road Builders.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE people of this State were delighted when they heard that the State on its $60,000,000 bond issue, set aside a certain mileage of dirt roads to be graveled. This is the way the Marthaville road in St. Charles County is graveled. Two boards about 9 inches high are placed about nine feet apart and gravel, sand and dirt are packed in, with all kinds of dirt used with it, is dug out between these boards, flush full, with no cracks and no rolling. The first auto to pass over it throws the dirt and the little sand that's with it heeler skelter, and your road is left with the gravel rolling and flying everywhere when an auto wheel hits them. No oil as a binder, and no rolling down to secure the gravel, and about nine feet wide. So on a rainy day no two autos can pass; one must get stuck in the mud, and the road is just as bad as the brick yard mud road.

MUD HOPPER.

A New Smoke Breather.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ONE month ago I moved to St. Louis. Just before I took the train, a friend remarked that I was in St. Louis once for a week and had to leave it then so as to get a breath of fresh air. I laughed at what I took to be a very poor joke. But I couldn't laugh at that just now, even if the condition of my lungs would allow it; for I see it was anything but a jest.

Smoke to right of me, smoke to left of me, smoke above me, smoke in me (though I don't use tobacco). It smells and tastes and feels like a combination of coal smoke and carbon monoxide. Whenever I go, night or day, downtown, up town, even beyond the city limits, in the Washington University section, I'll purr like a seal.

Could some kind reader tell me the reason for the and the source of the smoke? Do the people of St. Louis want it and ask for it—cry for it, as for some popular commodity? Or has the community perhaps not yet reached the stage of development where the group mind and the group will are able to express themselves? Or is the city in the grip of a sinister, powerful smoke ring, which takes diabolical delight in blackening the lungs and faces of the inhabitants?

CONSTANT SOUTHWORTH.

SAFETY AND THE MOTORS.

The broken column dedicated today "In Memory of Child Life Sacrificed on the Altar of Haste and Recklessness" invests Safety Week with a piercing poignancy. Thirty-two children have been killed by motor cars in St. Louis this year. This dreadful slaughter must be stopped. If necessary, regulations severe and searching enough to do it must be adopted and enforced.

Regulations, however, must be supplemented by whole-hearted co-operation on the part of the public, both motorist and pedestrian. Such co-operation may occasionally involve any of us in disagreeable duty, but in conscience and honor that duty cannot be shirked.

We have certain regulations now, submitted very properly in the form of requests, which are often brutally disregarded. We refer to the signs conspicuously posted in the vicinity of schools and playgrounds where children foregather, petitioning the motorist to drive slowly and with care. The majority of motorists comply gladly and sincerely. There are persons, however, who do not. Every one of us, probably, at one time or another, has seen cars driven along those stretches heedlessly and swiftly. In the excitement of play a child darting into the street, at such a moment simply has no chance. The plea of unavoidable accident in such circumstances is the perjury of a murderer.

It is no easy task to protect children from such unspeakable creatures, but the task is ours. It cannot be accomplished by ordinance, nor by any practicable system of official patrol. Every right-minded citizen must assist in this cause. We should all of us, men and women, depurate ourselves as protectors of children and when we see any motorist wantonly or thoughtlessly jeopardize the lives of children, the offender should be reported. There must be adequate laws then to deal with the case and adequate character among our law-enforcing officers.

The whole problem of safety in the motor age grows acutely year by year. Every city in the country faces it. Some cities have experimented with a great invention exploited for swollen profits only. But the blurb about moral and efficiency reforms is wearying. If the stars of filmdom are a greedy, vulgar, childish lot for whom have been made no stars for art's sake but for gain's sake.

LIGHT UP THE DARK PLACES.

St. Louis is going to be well lit, but just now there are certain spots, such as the Twenty-first street viaduct, which are so dark as to be dangerous. Commenting on the conditions surrounding the mysterious murder of Marie Bowers, the detective and policemen, accustomed to dark and lonely places, said that they would not think of traversing Twenty-first street, from Market to Chouteau, or crossing the viaduct, without having their revolvers handy. "It is a cave at night. There must be adequate laws then to deal with the case and adequate character among our law-enforcing officers.

With the invention of the cinema the human race fell heir to a means of entertainment which, by quantity production, could be made so nominal in cost that only the time spent need have been considered as the price of attending a show. The first admissions, when mechanics were crude but correspondingly expensive, and quantity production was still in its infancy, were 5 cents. Now a nickel only pays the war tax and in feature productions or regular shows in New York not even that.

Perhaps we have as good as could be expected from a great invention exploited for swollen profits only. But the blurb about moral and efficiency reforms is wearying. If the stars of filmdom are a greedy, vulgar, childish lot for whom have been made no stars for art's sake but for gain's sake.

THE RADIO POWER AGE.

The radio-printer machine, described in Saturday's Post-Dispatch, promises to do away with telegraph wires. It receives radio impulses and prints the news by wireless faster than it can be received by a telegraph operator at the end of a wire, besides avoiding the delays caused by storms breaking the wires.

There was a man who robbed a bank in Madison County, Ill. He was caught and convicted and sent to prison for 10 years or life, at the pleasure of the Pardon Board. But behold, this bad bank robber was a very good cook, which, when discovered, as it speedily was, gained for him release from the penitentiary and a job as the Governor's cook.

What though the officials of Madison County rage and the people of Madison County give voice to their indignation, and the good cook is snatched from the gubernatorial kitchen and brought back for trial on another charge, nothing will avail to keep the cook permanently out of the Governor's kitchen. The Pardon Board is mighty. It can again parole the crook who is also a cook, and all the signs are that it will and that the Governor's flappers will again be flapped with all the bank robber's skill.

It might be suggested that the public welfare would best be served by keeping in prison a bad crook, even though he is a good cook. But a Governor's meals must be well cooked and a Pardon Board, it would seem, has no higher duty than to turn loose as many criminals as may be needed to attend to the executive's gastronomic needs.

DEFATING THE MOVIES.

The business end of Hollywood announces with characteristic bombast that, following the "moral crusade" for "cleaning up the screen" under the sanctimonious leadership of Will Hays, its next progressive step will be an economic "mopping up," which, by all indications, is to consist of the deflation of the salaries of screen stars.

Certainly that would be good business practice.

But what does it mean to the movie-going public? Its sense of fairness has long been offended, if not outraged, by fabulous salaries paid less for art than for artificial popularity where the quantity production principle made such salaries easy to pay. Movie goers see something like $1,000,000 a year plus a bonus paid to a child whose qualities could be duplicated in thousands of other children. But if this sort of thing is to be eliminated who is to be the gainer—the public or the business monopoly?

We have no doubt that under Mr. Hays' facile direction a specious propaganda could be prepared showing how the economy realized from the slashing of salaries had been put into the improvement of production so that audiences for the same price would receive higher value. But who has the slightest inkling of a suspicion that admission prices to film shows will be reduced in consequence of the saving?

"LIGHT THAT FAILED" GOOD SCREEN PLAY

"Flaming Youth," "Cause for Divorce" and "Desire" Also Among Picture Features.

MUCH of the gloom that darkened Kipling's famous novel, "The Light That Failed," is eliminated from George Melford's picturization of the story, this week's "feature attraction" at the Missouri Theater.

Dick Heldar, the ill-fated artist, does not commit suicide on the screen as he did in the book. He has a happy ending, considering the circumstances in which he finds himself. And Bessie Broke, the girl of the streets, who, in the written story, "bit the hand that fed her" and otherwise presented a rather inhuman character, shows a dual personality in the photo drama that makes hatred for her give way to pity and finally admiration.

Jacqueline Logan, as the Broke girl, interprets a wide range of emotions. Rescued from the gutter she becomes an artist's model and poses for a painting in which his heart and soul are wrapped. Then she falls in love and her work as model becomes her life. To hold her services until the painting is finished the artist brings about a postponement of her love affair.

The role of Dick Heldar is exceptionally well played by Percy Marmont, who distinguished himself in "If Winter Comes." Others in the cast include David Torrence, Sigrid Holmquist, Mabel Van Buren, Luke Cragoe and Peggy Schaffer.

The stage presentations feature Milt Kovacs, the Belgian child pianist, hailed as "The Girl Paderewski." His program includes Moszkowski's "Valse," and Kreisler's "Liebesfreund."

Youth and Middle Age.

GAIN the glorification of the middle-aged lover in his matrimonial quest of a girl young enough to be his daughter. This time, in "Flaming Youth," the week's picture feature at the Grand Central, Milton Sills and Colleen Moore are the principals and all the magic of screen make-believe's necessary to give conviction to their romance.

The story is rather slight, turning as it does around a flapper's determination "live her own life" with the inevitable result that the middle-aged almost has her wings singed by a host of unconventional pleasures.

Sills has the part of a man who at one time had loved the girl's mother. After the mother dies, he takes a fatherly interest in the girl, giving her good advice and trying to restrain her flapperish impulses. In his absence the girl accepts the invitation of a designing villain to dine on his yacht. There is a revolting scene where he imprides her cables. She escapes him, but is just as overjoyed. Returning home hysterical, she shows later symptoms of nervous shock which seem to threaten her life. When the family physician has given up hope, she is quickly revived by the return of the high-minded middle-aged protector and counselor, who, in the great emergency, reveals that he has loved the girl all the time. There is a fade-out scene on a honeymoon journey. The settings are sumptuous, but the "sensational" features are mostly in the advance notices. On the bill also are excellent pictures of the Ziegfeld girls.

Advice in Time.

THE moral of "Cause for Divorce" at the Kings Theater is that chickens come home to roost. A strong situation is developed with considerable skill by a cast which includes Frizzi Brunette, Helen Lynch, Pat O'Malley and David Butler. A young woman has two suitors, one rich and the other poor. She marries the poor man. He is so busy trying to make a living that he neglects her. When he obtains employment as a ranch manager she returns to West with him. She remains a home wrecker, lonesome, though until her rich suitor comes or again enters her life. She is on porous ground when the saving advice of a friend causes her to see things in the right light. She joins her husband in the West. The rich suitor marries another. Years later, his daughter, married to a poor man, is preparing to slope with a bogus count when the ranchman's wife, not knowing the girl's identity, saves her from the fatal step by telling her the story of her own life.

Stage Antics and Romance.

THE Delmonte is again featuring the presentation of Ernie Young's "Desire" with Marlene Dietrich, Estelle Taylor and John Bowers in the leading roles. The Ernie Young company presents several new acts and choral effects with novel scenic settings.

The picture "Desire" is a sentimental and not too probable story, which seems to point the moral that first love is not always the best and that before approaching the matrimonial grade, crossing it would be wise to stop, look and listen. In this case both the prospective bride and groom fail to keep the engagement at the altar. The rest of the story tends to show what a frantic thing this was. The young woman later sleeps with her chauffeur and the young man meets another girl who is worthy of his love. There are some fine settings, notably the open-air wedding scene.

Gladys Becomes Rich Armin. LADIES WALTON again makes one of her famous quick changes in "The Near Lady" at the Rival. One moment she is a poor manicure girl. The next she is transformed into a butterfly of fashion.

TO MARRY IN NEW YORK

ANOTHER debutante will make her bow to society tonight when Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Lawrin of 5138 Washington boulevard, will entertain 100 guests, including only buds and their escorts, at "Wildflower," which is playing here this week, later at a dinner dance at the St. Louis Club, for their daughter, Miss Julia Nelson Lawrin.

Spring flowers, combined with roses, have been used in decorating the dining room of the club, while in the halls and ballrooms are clusters of yellow chrysanthemums and smilax. The debutante and her parents, with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Crawford, will receive in the ballroom. Miss Lawrin will be gowned in white cut velvet with bandings of white fox fur and rhinestone trimming. She will carry an arm bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. Lawrin will wear French blue georgette and a corsage of pink roses.

This is the second party for Miss Lawrin's debut. She was presented to several hundred friends of the family at a tea given by her mother several weeks ago.

One of the most successful parties of the autumn season was the "Third Annual Field Day of Zelico Hall," given yesterday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter at their country home of that name, on the Florisland road, in honor of Miss Marie Carr Taylor, their debutante niece, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lackland Taylor. The invitations, in which a list of events had been enclosed, gave the guests advance notice of the nature of the affair, and they came in sports clothes. The course where the races were run was mapped out on the large side lawn of the hall by flags.

Henry C. Garneau was manager for the day and Alex Primm and Mr. Taylor, starters. One of the principal events was called "Bobbing for Apples," in which the men of the party took turns at jumping from a ladder held by two of their number. The prize, a masked model, dressed in ridiculous looking checked dress and tights, was Miss Mary O'Fallon, and the winner was Kenneth Drummond. Miss Trimble Hoblitzelle and Warren Chandler Jr. won the three-legged race; Mr. Drummond, the egg race for hard-boiled bachelors, and Miss Mary Christy Tiffany, the backward race for debutantes and the sack race. At 6:30 o'clock, Mrs. Carpenter invited all contestants to the house for a buffet supper, followed by an informal musical program and stunts.

Invitations were received this morning from Philip Scholten for the bill he will give the evening of Dec. 7, at 3619 Lindell boulevard, for his wife, Miss Mary Christy Tiffany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Tiffany of 11 Horstense place. Miss Mary O'Fallon will share the honors of the evening. Her card was enclosed in the invitations.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement McCune Brown of 4310 Milwaukee avenue are entertaining Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons of Princeton University, a writer and lecturer.

Mr. John David Ferguson of 6255 Westminster place has sent out cards for a tea the afternoon of Nov. 28. About 100 guests are expected to call.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Fuld of 5518 Waterman avenue will be at home to their friends Wednesday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock, to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Alois Schwartz of the Bonaparte apartments have departed for New York, where they will visit their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Barton Schwartz, in their new home.

Students of Hosmer Hall will observe Education week, which opens today, with a number of assembly periods in which students will have the arrangements of programs and entertainments. Tomorrow morning there will be a program on "The Importance of Education in America," which addresses will be received, which will be made by the girls. The speakers will include several little girls from 10 to 12 years of age. On Wednesday, E. H. Wuerpel, director of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, will speak and Friday an entertainment will be given by the Latin classes in charge of Miss Ellen Craig.

Mrs. John H. Bentley of Chicago arrived in St. Louis Saturday, after a short stay in Kansas City, to visit her mother, Mrs. Pauline M. Schaefer, of 3743 Lincoln avenue.

Mrs. Charles F. Richards of Pershing avenue entertained with a bridge for 60 in her honor last week. Miss Doris Clarke Davies of 4207 Westminster place, has been called to Atlanta, Ga., because of the illness of her cousin.

Mrs. Charles Nagel of 44 Westmoreland place is expected home to-morrow after a lengthy visit in the East.

Miss Rebecca Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. Frank Sullivan of Bartner avenue, has chosen Dec. 1 as the date of her wedding to Herman W. Kastor, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Kastor of 6268 Washington boulevard. It will be a quiet ceremony, without a dinner at the home of the bride's mother. Miss Sullivan is a graduate of the Visitation Convent and Mr. Kastor of Washington University and the University of Illinois.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW CLOSES

Exhibition Was Very Near a Financial Success.

The Flower Show which closed last night at the First Regiment Armory was very near a financial success, the management announced. About 3700 school children were admitted free. Last year there was a $7500 deficit.

St. Louis exhibitors captured a lion's share of blue ribbons, although there was strong competition from all parts of the country. The silver cup for the grower winning most first prizes was won by W. A. Rowe of Kirkwood, with almost twice as many firsts as the nearest competitor. The florists' cup was a hotly contested award. Joseph Wieland and Fred C. Weber were tied for it until Saturday, when Weber won 12 years up. For this week the Motion Picture Council recommends "The Light That Failed."

'WILDFLOWER' IS ONE MORE MUSICAL PLAY

Promise of Comedy and Charm
Swamped by Choral and Specialty Conventions.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

THE new musical play, "Wildflower," which is playing here this week, is a bit different in that it has a comic idea and the possibility of charm inherent in an American setting. These are, at least, however, by the conventions of construction and direction which give musical comedy so barbarian an air. The piece rejoices in one song hit, "Bambanilla," which has all the supple rhythmic grace of limbs convulsed by the rigors of the malady cured by St. Vitus. The performance is in the hands of a hard-working cast.

The three acts are placed near Casino, a village in Lombardy, and at a villa on Lake Como. Nina Benedetto, a young peasant girl, is given to tantalums in which she jumps on other people's backs, and the traditional target of such buffets, whether the victim be male or female. News comes that her rich grandfather has died and left her a fortune, on condition that she renounces her enterprise in offering an unacknowledged work. Pierre's admirable Concerto in C Minor, Op. 12, the girl's temptations and struggles will occupy most of the space in a spoken comedy. But the pressure of songs and dances here reduces the situation to a minimum. We are permitted to witness only the final hour of her torments.

Illegitimacy is not only a State but a national problem. The Berceuse is often played with a violin and cello. At any rate, the writer seemed little more than a composite of the upper violincello and the lower violin, without the sonority of the one or the brilliance of the other.

The violin itself is badly off for solo literature, and the pieces written for the viola may be counted on the fingers of one hand. It may be doubted whether the selections chosen on this occasion were altogether in the idiom of the instrument. The Berceuse is often played with a violin and cello. At any rate, the writer seemed little more than a composite of the upper violincello and the lower violin, without the sonority of the one or the brilliance of the other.

The concert presented a second soloist, in Mrs. Helen Burnett, St. Louis pianist, who recently won first place in a State contest in piano playing, and who has made interesting beginnings as a song writer. The audience was pleased in the first place with her enterprise in offering an unacknowledged work. Pierre's ad-

STABBED IN STREET FIGHT

John Morgan, 19 years old, of $12 Chouteau avenue, was taken to City Hospital last night suffering from stab wound in the back, inflicted, he said, when he was attacked by three youths who were with three girls near Park avenue and Broadway.

As he passed the six, he said, one of the young men remarked,

"What you looking at?" The six stopped and a fight followed. As the others fled, Morgan collapsed. He was found at Sixth street and Chouteau avenue and taken to the hospital.

FARM OF WILLIAM HATCH LEFT TO STATE BY HIS DAUGHTER

Former Missouri Congressman Wrote Bill That Made Department of Agriculture a Cabinet Portfolio.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Nov. 13.—The farm of her late father, William H. Hatch, for 16 years a member of Congress from Missouri, was left by the will of Miss Sallie Rhodes Hatch, filed here today, to the State of Missouri for an agricultural experiment station, 'or such other agricultural uses as the State may care to devote it.' Hatch, while in Congress, was the author of the measure which created the Department of Agriculture as a Cabinet portfolio and devoted much of his life to the advancement of agriculture.

The estate is a farm of 118 acres, well improved, immediately outside the city limits of Hannibal. One thousand dollars as an endowment fund is left by Miss Hatch's will to William Jewell College, at Liberty, Mo., and $1200 to a local cemetery.

RABBI ABRAMOWITZFormer Senior Orthodox Jewish Rabbi Here Comes From Palestine for a Visit.Faces seemed to be glued to the iron gateway at Union Station last evening. At first only a few faces but they were quickly augmented by others, until soon from one end of the midway to the other there was hardly an exit not sentinelled by a pair of expectant eyes.These persons were early. It was only a little after 5 o'clock. They had almost an hour's wait. For Rabbi Bernard Abramowitz, until three years ago senior Orthodox Jewish rabbi of St. Louis, was not expected to arrive here from Chicago, on the last stage of his journey from Jerusalem, until 6.These men who clustered about the various gateways were old men,
most of them, with patriarchal beards. Behind them crowded their wives and standing a bit back, beardless and more composed, were their children.They waited and talked, but the talk was over their shoulders. It did not interfere with their view
Now and then one would hurry to the bulletin board to learn if the train on which the homecomer was scheduled to arrive had been given its track. And when the guard would tell them it wasn't due to arrive until 6 and wouldn't be tracked until five minutes before its arrival, they would hurry back to their vantage point.

Welcomers Rush to Rabbi.

Then, about 5:56, a little old man, white bearded, and a long black coat and a Quaker-like hat, walked slowly through the gate at the very west end of the midway. Somebody saw him. There was a rush and 200 former parishioners had gathered about him.He was taken aback, for he had given his daughter instructions not to advise anyone of his arrival.
Everyone of the 200 was trying to shake his hand and talk with him.
And presently he was swept by the throng through the midway, through the lobby, up the stairs, and into a waiting automobile. Even then his parishioners kept crowding around in an effort to reach him.After he had arrived at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Sarah Sachar, 5076A Enright avenue, some of his more persistent followers pursued him. It was not until they were told that he was ill and could not see them that they finally went away.Rabbi Abramowitz left St. Louis three years ago to return to Palestine, from where he had come about 20 years ago. He wished to spend the remainder of his days there, and to aid the Jewish colony in its work of colonizing and education. With him he took his wife and a daughter.After a recent illness he decided to make one more visit to America
so he might see his daughter in St.
Louis and a son living in Chicago.
So he made the long journey, leaving his wife and daughter in Jerusalem.

Talks of Jerusalem.

"There are now about 40,000 Jews in Jerusalem," Rabbi Abramowitz said. "There has been but little increase in the size of the colony, for owing to economic and political unrest in Europe, few have ventured to test life in a new land."But conditions there are excellent. All the various peoples living in Palestine have had equal voice in the local government, that is the policy by which the British government places. No class or race is given precedence over the other. And it will probably continue that way, for England knows the worth of a continent state so near the Suez Canal."Very little has occurred in Palestine in the recent years. Merely improvements in the manner of living and the education of the inhabitants. That is about all."Rabbi Abramowitz plans to stay in St. Louis for two or three months,
and then will return to Jerusalem,
where he hopes he may stay.BREAKS ALTAR FIXTURES AND

The Angle Which Caused Race Track Followers to See In Memoriam a Winner Was Hardly the Sporting Angle

Scullins Hard Pressed to Win From St. Matthews in Cup Game; Referee Needs Police Escort

Municipal League Team Shows Surprising Resistance. Losing, 3 to 1 — Matthews' Claim for Goal Disallowed by Referee Finnegan — Millers Defeat Trumbulls.

The surprising fact about the pair of national championship soccer cup games at High School Field yesterday was the resistance displayed by the St. Matthews of the Municipal League, in their match with the Scullins, professionals and former national champions. The Scullins were forced to top speed to win, 3 to 1.

The Ben Miller-Trumbull game, which the Millers won, 2 to 1, in extra periods, was lacking in clever football although exciting situations and even fisticuffs were in evidence. Both teams are members of Group 2 at Fairground Park in the Municipal League.

When it is recalled that the St. Matthews held the Scullins to a 2-1 score a week ago in a game which was protested by the Matthews, and lost in the replay by 3 to 1, it becomes evident that the Municipal Leagues are rapidly approaching the professional league standard of play. It is true, however, that the Scullins yesterday were many degrees weaker than the Scullin team which won the national title two years ago.

Goal for Matthews?

Yesterday the Matthews were very much pressed, with the ball until a point in the middle of the second half, when a terrific shot from Center Halfback McCarthy tore through Goaltender Dietl's hands. The goalie turned and swept the ball away. The Matthews appealed for a goal, claiming the ball was over the line, but Referee Finnegan ruled that no goal had been scored. Had he awarded the goal the score would have been 2 to 2, and to have lost such a point apparently broke the spirit of the St. Matthews, for they were never thereafter quite so strong. The Scullins soon added another, bringing their total to three. Burke, Brannigan and Schwarze scored for the professionals and Lehman for the Matthews.

The winning goal for the Ben Millers, in the first game, was scored by Nappy Goodwin after three minutes of the first extra period. O'Donnell had scored for the Trumbulls and Dick O'Toole had tied the court in the regulation time.

Police Escort Reference.

While the St. Matthews players controlled themselves well in pleading for a goal in the second half when Dietl let McCarthy's shot get through him, many of the spectators were more demonstrative. At the conclusion of the game an angry group surged about Referee Finnegan as he left the field but an escort of police beaters was immediately provided and serious consequences resulted.

In game played in the cup series, the international rules are in force. No goal linemen are permitted by these rules, placing the responsibility for decisions solely upon the referee.

Gardini to Meet Gus Anderson in Coliseum Mat Go

Italian Champion, Newly Re-turned From Home Country, Was Honored by Mussolini.

Renzo Gardini, Italian heavyweight wrestler who returned to the United States only a week ago after a sojourn of three months in his native land, has been signed by promoter John Contos to appear on the all-star mat program to be staged Thursday night at the Coliseum. Gardini accepted terms Saturday after a long distance telephone conversation with the local promoter. He will oppose Gus Anderson, a young Swedish heavyweight who has made an exceptionally good showing in Eastern wrestling circles.

Evidence of the esteem in which Gardini is held by the wrestling enthusiasts of Italy was contained in cable dispatches from Rome last summer, telling of the great ovations accorded the Genoese grappler by the natives of various cities he visited. On one occasion he was the honor guest of Mussolini, the Italian premier, at a national athletic carnival arranged in commemoration of the political victory of Mussolini and his adherents.

On that occasion Mussolini publicly acclaimed Gardini the greatest of all Italian wrestlers.

The Gardini-Anderson match rounds out a card of five events. Joe Stecher, former heavyweight champion, meets Dan Koloff, popular Bulgarian mat star, in one of the feature attractions. Wladek Zbyszko, also a former titleholder, will oppose John Evin in the headliner. Jimmy Lendas, the Greek champion and Charley Cutler, veteran American heavyweight, are also on the card. Joe Sanderson and John Orphan, middleweights, clash in the first preliminary.

MINNEAPOLIS AROUSED OVER RING GAMBLING ON COLLEGE GRID GAMES

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 19.—Sporadic city and university authorities in Minneapolis were aroused today by disclosures that commercial gambling schemes are using college football as the subject of betting pools in this city, saying the pools do irreparable damage to the spirit.

Members of the city council declare they will ask prosecution of alleged bookmakers and revocation of pool and license wherever operators are found guilty.

Investigators estimated that more than $5000 was paid Saturday night on football wagers at two centers of pool gambling, whereas previous totals are around $1000.

FOOTBALL PLAYER DIES FROM BROKEN BACK

By the Associated Press.
FAIRMOUNT, W. Va., Nov. 19.—Dale Hawley, 18 years old, an end on the New Martinsville, W. Va., football team, died today in a hospital here today. He had been confined in a game there last Saturday. His back was broken.

Decomposing the pools, George Goldin, president of the Minneapolis baseball club of the American Association, urged that the gamblers be given a trial.

"What would happen if some college player got mixed up in the kind of scandal that wrecked the Chicago White Sox a few years ago?" he said. "What if happen if the thing is not stopped at once?"

Wise Counsellor Wins by a Neck; It Looks Like 1 1-2 Lengths

Apparently in this picture Mad Play, the beaten horse, is losing this race, run the same day at the same track as the Zev event, by a length and one half. He lost by a neck. The angle at which the picture was taken, aided by the fact that Mad Play was out near the middle of the track, helped the illusion.

WRAY'S COLUMN

All in the Angle.

JUDGES stand have been formed and race track properties have been destroyed in past times because track-side observers saw nose-finish results differently than did the officials. Probably the judges were right; and the emotion and the destruction wrought by protesting bettors was needless.

Standing directly in line with the finish and looking down on it with eyes guided in a direct line by two points, one in the stand and the other exactly opposite on the other side of the track, if there is the slightest variation in the noses of horses as they pass the finish line the judges and ONLY the judges are in perfect position to note it.

All other observers standing to either side of the finish line as the horses pass are NOT in proper position to determine the result, especially if it is a hair-line verdict to be rendered.

The reason is obvious. If coming to the finish in a dead heat the horses are viewed from an angle to the right of the judges' stand, the horse nearest the inside rail will appear to be in front. That is because the eye of the observer seems to see a portion of the head, neck or body, according to the angle of the horse nearest the "pole." Unconscious allowance is made by the observer for the angle, the horse on the "pole" will appear to be leading by precisely that amount of his head, neck or body which the observer, thanks to the angle of his viewpoint, is able to see.

Were the observer to the left of the judges' stand, the horse NEARER to the observer would appear to be ahead, because the angle of the horse's haunches would seem to be behind those of the nearer horse.

The nearer the observer draws to the finish line in front of the judges' stand, the narrower becomes the angle and the smaller the portion of the "pole" horse which is visible.

All the news photographs taken appear to have been printed at the finish from the point to the right of the judges' line of vision and therefore at an angle with the line of the finish.

Criticism based on such photos is an injustice to the judges and to Zev, who apparently won the race.

Much of the hubbub doubtless was due to the intense desire of the Kentucky crowd to see the Kentucky horse win.

BROWNS SIGN PITCHER WHO WON 23 GAMES AND LOST ONE LAST SEASON

Bill Friel, business manager of the Browns, announced today that his club had signed J. M. "Mitch" Wilson, professional pitcher, of Kansas City, Missouri.

Wilson pitched 24 games last season, according to Friel's information, and lost only one of them. He's a right-hander, 5 feet 10 inches tall, and it is expected that he would be successful if the younger did "just half as well" in the American League.

Members of the city council declare they will ask prosecution of alleged bookmakers and revocation of pool and license whereas previous totals are around $1000.

Decomposing the pools, George Goldin, president of the Minneapolis baseball club of the American Association, urged that the gamblers be given a trial.

"What would happen if some college player got mixed up in the kind of scandal that wrecked the Chicago White Sox a few years ago?" he said. "What if happen if the thing is not stopped at once?"

The Harvard-Yale Case.

SOME years ago Harvard and Yale crews rowed a four-mile race to a close finish. The judges announced that one boat had defeated the other by a margin of four feet.

There was much doubtful comment among those who had viewed the race at an angle. When motion pictures appeared showing that the boat designated as the winner was apparently winning by a small margin, a roar went up from all who saw the pictures.

But that, too, was proved to be merely another case of optical illusion, due to the angle at which the picture was made.

Yale won on a race, occupy the only position in which an absolutely exact view of a result may be obtained.

Paris, Nov. 19.—Quentin Romeo, the French heavyweight champion, and Marcel, the French heavyweight champion of France, have signed articles of agreement to meet in a 20-round match here Dec. 1. The fight will take place in the Velodrome L'Univers.

Two Judges Decided In Zev's Favor, One Said In Memoriam Won

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 19.—

WO of the three judges in the stand at Churchill Downs, Saturday, decided that Zev had won the race and one thought in Memoriam was first. It developed today. The three officials were N. H. McClelland, W. W. Wallace and B. J. Smith, all veteran horsemen. The judges thus far have refused to comment on the result other than to admit that they were not unanimous in naming Zev winner. Which was the dissenting official they also declined to discuss.

Photographers who took several snaps of the finish all agreed that the angle from which their photos were taken had something to do with the illusion seen in the pictures, whereby in Memoriam's nose appears to be bent.

In the opinion of the writer, dead heat would have been a popular decision. While Zev, he certainly did not prove himself the better horse at a mile and a quarter. The riding of Sandy was never anything else, won the race; —there are so many UPS and BUTS—and this race was no exception. Even the placings around them.

In Memoriam had a shade better of the start, and Sandy, intentionally keeping his mount out in the middle of the track, forced Zev to go to the front and set the pace. The race was slow in the first quarter, and badly judged. Sandy himself said after the race, "Garnie rode just right."

Zev to Meet My Own.

Probably the best way to settle the question would be for Zev to meet again. Harry Sinclair announced yesterday that he would accept Hear Admiral George Grayson's challenge for a match a mile and a quarter for $10,000 at corner at Bowles, some time after next Saturday. However, Carl Weidemann probably will not avail himself of the challenge of Admiral Grayson, which included the winner of the Latonia championship.

In Memoriam is a fast-track horse and in the deep going of the Midwest course he would be at a distinct disadvantage. So it appears that another turf question will remain unanswered.

Sam Hildreth, having set a new record for a winning trainer, the horses of the Rancocas state team won more than $42,000 this year. Hildreth, however, wants to get another with Zev.

Owner Carl Weidemann Declines Admiral Grayson's Invitation to Enter.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 19.—Some Kentuckians will need a lot of convincing before they believe that Zev really beat in Memoriam in their match race at Churchill Downs Saturday. More are convinced in Memoriam is the better horse. Match races never settle anything, anyhow there are so many IFFS and BUTS and this race was no exception. Even the placings aroused discussion.

In the opinion of the writer, a head start would have been a more popular decision. While Zev won, it certainly did not prove himself the better horse at a mile and a quarter. The riding of Sande, more than anything else, won the race for him. In Memoriam was poorly handled by Mack Garner, who played to the hands of Sande.

In Memoriam had a shade the better of the start, and Sande, intentionally keeping him mount out past the middle of the track, forced Garner to go to the front and set the pace. The race was slow in the first quarter and badly judged. Sande himself and after the race, "Garner did just to Zev."

Zev to Meet My Own. Probably the best way to settle the question would be for Zev and in Memoriam to meet again. Harry Sinclair announced yesterday that he would accept Rear Admiral Grayson's challenge for a match at a mile and a quarter for $10,000 a corner at Bowie, some time after next Saturday. However, Carl Weidemann probably will not avail himself of the challenge of Admiral Grayson, which included the winner of the Latona championship.

In Memoriam is a fast-track horse, and in the deep going of the Maryland course he would be at a distinct disadvantage. So it appears that another turf question will remain unsettled.

Sam Hildreth, having set a new record for a winning trainer, the horses of the Rancocas stable having won more than $423,000 this season, wants to get another with Zev, however, may not find it so easy. He has had a lot of shipping about the country in the last few weeks and now has gone back to Baltimore to meet Mr. Owen in Memoriam Another Exterminator.

In Memoriam is a much improved sort, and it may be that he will be a better horse next year than he was this year. The "Latona" Exterminator, and that is high enough praise for any horse. When "beat Zev" in the Latona championship two years ago, it was upon one of those two horses racing like the victory of Chicago in the Kentucky Special. His Saturday proved that it was not.

Five Major Elevens, Unbeaten

In Season's Campaign, Battle
Final Contests Next Saturday

Yale, Cornell, Michigan, Illinois and California Thus Far Have Best Records in Race for National Honors—Defeat of Syracuse an Upset Only Equalled by Washington's Victory.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Five unbeaten football elevens, all but one of those that remain of the country's gridiron championship aspirants that have not been overthrown or tied, will go into action this week in various sections of the country.

Yale in the East meet: Harvard; California, the lone survivor in the Far West with an unspotted escutcheon, opposes its traditional rival, Stanford; while in the Middle West Michigan, undefeated or tied; meets Minnesota, tied but not beaten, in the important battle of the Middle West. Illinois, another eleven with a clean slate, faces the much-battered Ohio State machine.

There are other good games even greater ones, on the program for Saturday, such as the Army-Navy, the Nebraska-Syracuse and the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech contests; but the principals have all been spilled out of the country's title race by default.

Cornell, the other Eastern unbeaten survivor, is idle, and its one remaining game is with Pennsylvania, a second-rate eleven among the Go-bethes of the present year.

For Yale, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and California, Saturday's contest will be the last game of the season, so that the struggle to survive with untarnished records will be waged to the bitterest finality.

Babbit Bites the Tiger. Yale is "in," unless some such soury trick as happened Saturday in two or three instances, notably when the hitherto rabbitlike Piker turned and bit the ferocious Missouri Tigers—and the Tigers bit the dust. Harvard is weak this year, and it seems impossible that the eleven which bowed to Brown, 20 to 1, and to Dartmouth, 16 to 0, can hope to down the fighting Bulldogs.

No rabbit is going to make that terrible run.

Sam Hildreth, having set a new record for a winning trainer, the horses of the Rancocas stable having won more than $423,000 this season, wants to get another with Zev, however, may not find it so easy. He has had a lot of shipping about the country in the last few weeks and now has gone back to Baltimore to meet Mr. Owen in Memoriam Another Exterminator.

When "beat Zev" in the Latona championship two years ago, it was upon one of those two horses racing like the victory of Chicago in the Kentucky Special. His Saturday proved that it was not.

Cornell Best, "Dope" Shows. It too, however, will have to derive its satisfaction from comparative scores. If one proceeds on a line through Syracuse and Colgate, Cornell appears to outclass anything in the country.

Alas for the comparative score! While in the main it still runs true—the dope battled .760 in about 40 games figured Saturday—it cannot be guaranteed for any individual contest. In some cases it runs as fine as a blond hair. For example, take the Harvard-Brown-Dartmouth combination. As between these three teams, the Harvard-Brown game figured within one point to end as it did.

On the other hand, take the Washington-University-Missouri struggle at Francis Field. Before the game Missouri figured to win by not less than 50 points; yet it was defeated, 13 to 7.

Out on the other coast California "dope" to come clean through its struggle with Letson-Stanford by a small margin. Probably Coach Andy Smith will see that it does, since he is one of those go-getters who knows how to make events behave.

And, in the Middle West, Michigan and Illinois figure to be rather sure winners, although Minnesota's sterling defeat of Iowa makes Michigan's lot anything but a soft one.

Thanksgiving day will see a few more games, but none with real championship bearing, so that Saturday night will be the returns from all national title claimants in and waiting to be weighed.

Five Rivals for U. S. Honors. The "probables" are Yale, Cornell, California, Michigan and Illinois. Possibly West Virginia should be included, but that will be Penn State's intervention.

The Big Ten conference struggle can not be definitely settled unless Minnesota bows to Michigan, which then the Gophers will have been undefeated, although tied by Wisconsin—elevens twice overcome. Illinois will have the outstanding claim in the "probables."

In the Valley the title lies between Kansas and Nebraska, unless the Tigers pull another one of those王者's beat Kansas.

Davidson has been eliminated somewhat to the surprise of the devotees; but Nebraska is still in contention and will remain in Valley games.

Centre in the South and Texas in the Southwest, appear to have the best conference elevens in those sections.

Next to the Washington University's conquest of Missouri, Saturday—a tribute to Coach Wimberly's unflinching efforts in the face of hopeless circumstances. The defeat of Syracuse was the big surprise of Saturday. Col-

Bruce Carmyle Suspected

Mostly Sally

By P. G. Wodehouse

A CONTINUED STORY

of Being in Love With Sally

GINGER did not abandon his attempt to indicate the silver lining. "I think you are making too much of all this, you know. I mean to say, it's quite likely he's found some mug . . . what I mean is, it's just possible that your brother isn't standing the entire rocket himself. Perhaps some rich Johnnie has breezed along with a pot of money. It often happens like that, you know. You read in the papers that some manager or other is putting on some show or other when really the chap who is actually supplying the pieces of eight is some anonymous lad in the background."

"That is just what has happened, and it makes it worse than ever. Fillmore tells me that your cousin, Mr. Carmyle, is providing the money."

This did interest Ginger. He sat up with a jerk.

"Oh, I say!" he exclaimed.

"Yes," said Sally, still agitated but pleased that she had at last shaken him out of his trying attitude of detachment.

Ginger was scowling.

"That's a bit off," he observed.

"I think so, too."

"I don't like that."

"Nor do I."

"Do you know what I think?" said Ginger, ever a man of plain speech and a reckless plunger into delicate subjects. "The blighter's in love with you."

Sally flushed. After examining the evidence before her she had reached the same conclusion in the privacy of her thoughts, but it embarrassed her to hear the thing put into bald words.

"I know Bruce," continued Ginger, "and, believe me, he isn't the sort of cove to take any kind of flutter without a jolly good motive. Of course, he's got tons of money. His old guvnor was the Carmyle of Carmyle, Brent & Co.—coal mines up in Wales, and all that sort of thing—and I suppose he must have left Bruce something like half a

"No, it's not," agreed Sally. "But don't let's talk about it any more. Tell me all about your trip to Chicago."

Sally Shows She's Not a Heartbreaker

"All right. But, returning to this bungle for a moment, I don't see how it matters to you one way or the other. You're engaged to another Johnnie, and when Bruce rolls up and says: 'What about it?' you're simply to tell him that the shot isn't on the board and will be kindly melt away. Then you hand him his hat and out he goes."

Sally gave a troubled laugh.

"You think that's simple, do you? I suppose you imagine that a girl enjoys that sort of thing? Oh, what's the use of talking about it? It's horrible, and no amount of arguing will make it anything else. Do let's change the subject. How did you like Chicago?"

"Oh, all right. Rather a grubby sort of place."

"So I've always heard. But you ought not to mind that being a Londoner."

Foster Nothing Less Than a Wing-Three

"Yes. He was in the footer team with me my last year."

"Was he a scrum-half, too?" asked Sally, dimpling.

Ginger looked shocked.

"You don't have two scrum-halves in a team," he said, pained at this ignorance on a vital matter. "The scrum-half is the half who works the scrum and . . ."

"Yes, you told me that at Roville. What was Gerald—Mr. Foster then? A six and seven-eighths, or something?"

"He was a wing-three," said Ginger with a gravity befitting his theme. "Rather fast, with a fairly decent swerve. But he would not learn to give the reverse pass inside to the center."

"Ghastly!" said Sally.

"It," said Ginger earnestly. "A wing's bottled up by his wing and the back, the only thing he can do, if he doesn't want to be bundled into touch, is to give the reverse pass."

"I know," said Sally. "If I've thought that once, I've thought it a hundred times. How nice it must have been for you meeting again. I suppose you had all sorts of things to talk about?"

Ginger shook his head.

"Not such a frightful lot. We were never very thick. You see, this chap Foster was by way of having a bit of a worm."

"What?"

"A tick," said Ginger. "A rotter. He was pretty generally barred a

My Sadness

By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB.

THE day brings with it its work and its play. Its gladness and its sorrow. And time moves on.

They say the world has dealt kindly with me. And given me creature comforts. At the end of my stride with sword things Yet in the midst of pleasure I am sad. When I hear laughter I cannot make merry with spirit. For mirth is somewhat mockery. There is nothing to which I turn. And memory reflects a face young. Yet old and tired. There are those who envy me. Because my life seems filled with ease.

I can go my way and do as I desire. But, ah, me! they know not my madness. Else they would not wish to be in my place.

And, strange to say, I know the reason.

Of my weary way with all its sameness. The little god that rules the world Has passed me by. In the heyday of youth I laughed at Love. And pushed it away—thought there was time aplenty; That I had but to call.

Alas! I have learned a lesson of loneliness and longing. Because I did not reach out for Love When it came my way.

And now it seems so hard to find. Let those who scoff and treat lightly The spirit that moves the universe Hear this and know that one must run.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

My Debt to Goldenlocks.

I OWE a debt to Goldenlocks that I can never pay. Wee Goldenlocks in rumpled frocks goes singing at her play; the world's all beauty for her eyes, it waits on her command, with ease she captured any prize by stretching forth her hand. All hearts are kind (she deems them so) and everywhere she goes there are no angry winds that blow, no thorns on any rose. Yes, Earth for Goldenlocks is fair as through bright day on day with sunlight in her shining hair, she's busy at her play. And, watching her, I seem to gain the way I knew of old into that beautiful domain where not one heart is cold. In childhood's realm I find a place, a haven where I rest, where there's not one forbidding face, not one sore-burdened breast. I owe a debt to Goldenlocks I never can repay.

GIRLS SHOULD NOT MARRY BEFORE 22 — Gertrude Atherton

Writer Would Have Social Laws Ban Matrimony

"Pitiful Disadvantage" of Girl of 18 Beside Highly Endowed Woman of 30, Told by Writer in Second of "Love, Marriage and the Modern Woman" Series.

GERTRUDE ATHERTON, who for many years has held a position in the first rank of living American authors, and whose latest book, "Black Oxen," dealing with the rejuvenation of woman, has made a sensational impression upon the reading public, carries forward in this article the discussion of what is the best age for marriage, which was introduced last week by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Mrs. Rinehart, under the title "The Best Age for Marriage—19 or 29" told the story of her own romance and marriage at nineteen, and how, as the mother of three children, she had already made a start upon her career by twenty-nine. She raised the question as to what the effect would have been both upon herself and her career if she had delayed her marriage until twenty-nine. Mrs. Rinehart will continue with her theme and her personal story in later articles, and Mrs. Atherton also will be heard again in this unusual forum upon the subject of LOVE, MARRIAGE, AND THE MODERN WOMAN. Among other outstanding writers who will contribute to the discussion are Mary Johnston, Mrs. Gouverneur Morris, Rupert Hughes, Fanny Heaslip Lea and Zona Gale.

By Gertrude Atherton.

I AM opposed to censorship in any form that curtails the liberty of intelligent adults, but the maximum of human happiness would be increased if there were an unwritten social law forbidding girls to marry before, say, the age of twenty-two; a law, the violation of which involved the loss of social prestige.

No girl under that age knows enough to know her own mind. She may be bright, clever, even highly intelligent, but no natural gift takes the place of experience. Compare any brilliant girl of eighteen with an equally endowed woman of thirty. Her disadvantage is pitiful. Moreover, the older woman has the inestimable advantage of knowing that she does not know everything and has realized that she must go on learning as long as she lives.

I fix the marriageable age at twenty-two for several reasons. In the first place it gives a girl time to exhaust the irresponsible pleasure of youth before assuming the responsibilities of matrimony, heavy at best. I am now talking of the daughters of parents whose means permit them to enjoy their youth in the fashion to which every girl is entitled.

By twenty-two unless a moron (and the time will come when all morons will be painlessly destroyed), she will be ready to "settle down." As for that large army of girls who are obliged to get out into the world and earn their bread, they will have an even better opportunity to study men and life at first hand, and are even less likely to make a mistake in choosing a life-partner than at 18.

So wise and hard calculating is the young girl of today that she has a far better prospect of making a success of her life than any generation of girls in the past. And of happiness. For these characteristics are a mere protective armor, partly affected, partly the result of complex modern conditions.

At 22 she will be wiser and older than her mother was at that age. Nevertheless, in spite of her precocity at 18, she is by no means wise enough then to select her mate, because no amount of precocity can take the place of that positive experience the years alone give; of a certain maturity, not only of the ego, but of the intellect.

No Wise Enough at 18.

A girl has by no means reached complete mental maturity at 22, but she is at least 10 years older in experience and orientation than when she left the schoolroom. The younger a girl, the more abject a victim she is to the mere urge of the race. Nature is conscienceless and ruthless. And what is civilization for if it is not to get ahead of nature?

In the unfettered intimacy that now prevails between girls and young men, surely no young girl, no matter how romantic beneath her protective armor, can have any illusions regarding the male by the time she has entered her twenties; and illusions are the only things we hear of.

With every generation girls are older than their predecessors at the same age. We hear so much sensational criticism of the flapper of today that we have leapt to the conclusion that never in the world was there anything like her before. But glance through the literature of fiction and memoirs. Ask our mothers and grandmothers. The same horrified criticism has greeted every generation of girls since the first mother announced passionately, "In my young days the only happiness a brave man ever troubled himself with asking much about was happiness enough to get his work done.

Forget your past circumstances, whether they be sorrows or joys. The one is not without remedy the other not perfect. Both are past—why remember them?

She was the American head of the Bénefice du Bénefice, which aided wounded and returned women.

Modern conditions make it possible for a woman to do her duty by her race—her, not the race—and still have her career. To begin it, moreover, when she is wise enough to reduce mistakes to a minimum. Moreover, no woman is complete who has not had children, and completeness of experience is essential to rounded success. Children are valuable if only for developing the human sympathies and enriching one's knowledge of life and human nature. It is an economic mistake to avoid the experience.

To accomplish anything one must begin at the beginning. There are isolated cases of old maids and barren women who have made a conspicuous success of themselves, but they are the exceptions that prove the rule.

It is possible that a woman may have her brain, and go to work to save the brain, and afterward to take her second wife, have fulfilled the purpose for which she began her career. The meaning of this is that she comes her opportunity when the heartiest part of her sex debt is discharged.

BEFORE 22 — Gertrude Atherton

Bar Mrimony Before That Age

G. H. B. Atherton. Mrs. Atherton has referred to her marriage as "one of the most important incidents of my school life." Mr. Atherton died a few years later, and Mrs. Atherton went to New York to enter upon her literary career.

Her first books dwelt upon California scenes, and the influences of her childhood are found in her early novels. "But," she confesses, "life at his highest pitch of civilization interests me most."

Among Mrs. Atherton's important books are: "Senator North," "The White Morning," "American Love," "The Perch of the Devil."

"The White Morning" was a study of German life; "The Living Present" a novel of France.

During the war Mrs. Atherton was active as a publicist and hospital worker in the cause of the Allies. She was the American head of Le Bien Etre du Blesse.

She has wounded and returned to Paris.

In "Black Oxen," her most recent work, she has undertaken an unusual theme, physical education, the temporary thwarting of a life.

At the climax of a brilliant career she has reached some highly arresting conclusions on the subject of love and marriage, which she sets forth in the accompanying article.

women will deliberately forego marriage altogether and choose the career in its place.

But this is a shirking of responsibility, and unpardonable in this country where the dangers to the Republic at the hands of alien races seem so portentously.

It is all very well to be a free agent, and it is the most precious of all privileges, but as a matter of fact no such mortal exists.

No one, unless he isolates himself in the wilderness, can avoid the interlocking responsibilities of society.

If he attempts it, he becomes an outlaw.

Modern conditions make it possible for a woman to do her duty to her race, not the race and still have her career. To begin it, moreover, when she is wise enough to reduce mistakes to a minimum. Moreover, no woman is complete who has not had children, and completeness of experience is essential to rounded success. Children are valuable if only for developing the human sympathies and enriching one's knowledge of life and human nature. It is an economical mistake to avoid the experience.

To accomplish anything one must begin at the beginning. There are isolated cases of old maid and barren women who have made a conspicuous success of themselves, but they are the exceptions that prove the rule.

And there is no telling how much charged, and as her child older and are more away from her until she altogether, her opportunity increase with every passing year.

It is possible that all save the brainless, will ward to some sort of career when the time to take their second wind have fulfilled the prime pose for which she was the persistence of the comes her opportunity the meaning of civilization.

more distinguished they might have been in their life work if they had begun by discharging their primary debt.

Children for the Nation.

As statistics show that the great Nordic race that founded this Republic is being bred out by the Alps and Mediterranean, the future of this country would look less dark. Anything can be done with the plastic mind. Spoilt, bad-mannered children are destined by all but their fond parents. Whose fault is it? Not theirs.

It is as easy to inculcate good manners in children as an appetite for the morning cereal. And it would be quite as easy to bring them up with a sense of duty to their race and to the future of their country, and to inspire them with a passion for large families.

What are the sacrifices? Woman's vanity. But that is too old an argument for these days.

There are 20 different ways for preserving the figure, or restoring it, quite aside from dieting. Before long we shall be a nation of sylphs.

Pleasure? "But I want to enjoy life while I am young, not be tied down with a lot of children." The answer is easy. Don't marry before you are 22; and endeavor to realize that when you are 30, if you have kept your health and sanity, you will feel younger than you did at 20, and at 40 younger than at 30.

The women of a generation ago could not say this, but we can.

any form of government the world has ever known. Also, that all substitutes so far put forward not only offer nothing in the way of improvement, but are infinite worse.

Younger at Forty

Than at Thirty.

If this were taught, first in the family, and then in the schools, that form the major part of our immigration stream, it is now not only the patriotic but the parental duty of every young woman of the old American stock to have from three to five children. It is irrational to say they cannot afford it, for the poor afford it and get along somehow.

Certainly there are many thousands of couples in the United States, either wealthy or well-to-do, who limit their families for selfish reasons only, and thousands more who could have at least three children if they were willing to exert in the right direction the principle of self-sacrifice that is the lot of every mortal.

If men and women with one child, to whom they are uxoriously devoted, would reflect that they are doing their best to deprive that child of future happiness and opportunity, by delivering its country over to a breed of revolutionists, intent upon destroying individuality in that most stultifying of all ideals, communism, to say nothing of depriving them of every other heritage, surely they would make the necessary sacrifices unless they were morons and incapable of thought.

It is as easy to inculcate good manners in children as an appetite for the morning cereal. And it would be quite as easy to bring them up with a sense of duty to their race and to the future of their country, and to inspire them with a passion for large families.

What are the sacrifices? Woman's vanity. But that is too old an argument for these days.

Children's Stories: Household Hints

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

Sudden fright may force you to do the thing you feared to do.

—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Nanny Meadow Mouse had ceased to be afraid of the airplane resting on the Green Meadows just a little way from her home. That is, she was not afraid to run around it and under it. But nothing that Danny Meadow Mouse could say would induce her to climb up into it. If had taken Danny away once, and Nanny never forgot that. She didn't intend to give it a chance to take her away.

Danny liked to climb up in it. He liked to run all over it and poke his inquisitive little nose into all parts of it that he could reach. Nanny was satisfied to keep down on the ground. Every day Farmer Brown's boy and his cousin, the man-who-was-a-man, would go over to it and look it over at close range. So Reddy came trotting along the edge of Farmer Brown's cornfield shortly after Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had settled down to their feast.

Reddy trotted along until he came to the airplane, which Danny and Nanny were running from the cornfield over to the man-bird. His nose told him at once that they had been along that path just a short time before. He knew they must be out in the grass of the Green Meadows. He lost all interest in the man-bird. His interest right then was in the other side lightly with butter and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Return to toaster until sugar melts. This is a pleasing change from plain buttered toast.

Danny had chosen the only place of safety. She scrambled up after him, and she was only just in time. She was more afraid of Reddy than she was of being carried away by that man-bird. So at last there she was, actually at that man-bird, where he had said she would never go.

One Mistake

That millions are correcting. They fight the film on teeth.

In the old days, even well-brushed teeth were left with film-coats on them. The teeth were cleaned more or less.

Now millions have found a new method. You see the result in glistening teeth wherever you look today. Teeth are whiter, cleaner, safer.

If you don't know what that method means, we urge you to make this test. It is something you'll desire.

Other vital needs

It was also found that old methods brought undesired effects. They reduced the alkalinity of the saliva — the neutralizer of mouth acids. They reduced the starch digestant in saliva, which is there to digest starch deposits.

Peppermint brings just opposite effects. It multiplies the alkalinity, multiplies the starch digestant. Thus every use gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

Protect the Enamel
Peppermint disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains starch grit.

That film problem dental science has worked hard to solve. Now two ways have been found. One

You'll be amazed and delighted

A test of Peppermint will be revelation to you. What you see and feel will soon convince you that you need these good effects.

NOTHING TO SAY,
SAYS GOVERNOR
ABOUT ROAD CRISIS

Hyde, However, Has Given Up All Hope
Something Can Be Done
to Save the Program.

ACTION BY JAN. 1
DECLARED IMPERATIVE

So Far as Public Knows,
Executive Faces Boguey
Own Conjuring in Fed
Politics in Session.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 19.—Gov. Hyde still declines to say whether he will call a special session of the Missouri Legislature to meet with the need of the State Highway Department for additional revenue.

The State Highway Commissioners have said that much of the road system as now outlined could be built by 1927 if the department is enabled to work to top speed. This means that the commission would have to have funds and authority to contract for $15,000,000 of work each of the years 1924, 1925 and 1926.

This is not a new problem. It was laid before the regular session of the Legislature last winter by Gov. Theodore G. of the High Commission. An adequate solution was not provided at that time because organizations of motorists, whose increase in motor vehicle census year. The Legislature seemed without any real concern of the significance of its action, if any, was far in the future so the legislators were undisturbed. The motorists only wanted no increase in license fees.

Revulsion of Feeling.

A few months ago, however, Gary presented the stark facts to the Automobile Club of Missouri in St. Louis, a revulsion of feeling occurred. Road construction would have to cease in many cities of the State by the middle of the year. No contracts could be let after Oct. 1 of next year and could be let in 1925 unless and certain additional revenue of $2,000,000 a year were provided. Completion of the program as of now reached the end of the year, the $15,000,000 would suffice, would be posted indefinitely. Instead, if no roads at the rate of $150,000 a month, construction would be stopped to the negligible volume of 100 and before. The fine organization of technical and skilled men created to execute this program have to be broken up, or else depleted to a skeleton of its present size. The time and months to a year of delay in starting momentum should the legislation be provided by a new Legislature.

Meanwhile Missouri, with single cross-state all-weather roads in any direction, has only a mile of patches of highway, stretching a few miles of gravel here and there, long stretches of dirt, and when the weather like the few weeks ago becomes mud and slush.

Fears Not Foundation.

Gov. Hyde has declared that emergency exists within the meaning of the Constitution, but he declined to convene the Legislature.

The Democrats, who do not believe in the emergency, are more numerous than the Republicans.

They fear that would be their chance to a special session.

Gov. Hyde's fears are without foundation, for his erratic adventures undoubtedly the most of the opportunity for the regular session.

His campaign districts, only a few, their impulses are more numerous than them. Several Democratic Senators are candidates for State office, and they might be able to forget that fact.

Now, the Governor and some of his associates would be attacked.

Gov. Hyde's most recent statement, and investigation might reveal at one branch or another.

Powerless Hypothetical.

Gov. Hyde is not the only one to have a hostile legislature before the hour of an emergency. Other
